

05. Sharing in Christ's Mission as king

There is only one king in the Christian Religion: Christ. It is he who brings about the reign of God's love in the world. Now he, the vine, acts through us his branches.

In baptism we were anointed king.

The reign of God's love

‘Committed to building a new world, we do so,
not from a sense of obligation,
not as a burdensome duty,
but as the result of a personal decision which brings us joy and gives meaning to our lives.’
(Evangelii Gaudium. n.269).

1Cor 12:4-7

‘There are varieties of gifts

[charisma]

but the same Spirit;

there are varieties of ministries

[diakonia]

but the same Lord;

there are varieties of ways of exercising power

[energema]

but it is the same God who activates them all in everyone.

To each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for a good purpose

‘The gospel is the power of God for salvation to everyone who has faith.’
(Romans 1:16)

‘May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.’
(Romans 15:13)

‘The power of the Spirit of God’(Romans 15:19).

‘The message about the cross is the power of God’(1Corinthians 1:18).

Let your faith rest not on human wisdom but on the power of God.’
(1Corinthians 2:5)

‘We have this treasure in clay jars, so that it may be made clear that this extraordinary power belongs to God and does not come from us.’

(2Corinthians 4:7)

‘He said to me, “My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness”(2Corinthians 12:9).

‘Of this gospel I have become a servant according to the gift of God’s grace that was given me by the working of his power’(Ephesians 3:7).

‘I pray that, according to the riches of his glory, he may grant that you may be strengthened in your inner being with power through his Spirit.’

(Ephesians 3:16)

‘By the power at work within us, he is able to accomplish abundantly far more than all we can ask or imagine’(Ephesians 3:20).

‘When you were buried with him in baptism, you were also raised with him through faith in the power of God, who raised him from the dead’(Colossians 2:12).

‘God did not give us a spirit of cowardice, but rather a spirit of power and of love and of self-discipline’(2Timothy 1:7).

‘The Gospel speaks of a seed which, once sown, grows by itself, even as the farmer sleeps (Mark 4:26-29). The Church has to accept this unruly freedom of the word, which accomplishes what it wills in ways that surpass our calculations and ways of thinking’(EG, n.22).

‘An evangelizing community is always concerned with fruit, because the Lord wants her to be fruitful. It cares for the grain and does not grow impatient at the weeds’(EG, n. 24).

‘The parish is a community of communities, a sanctuary where the thirsty come to drink in the midst of their journey, and a centre of constant missionary outreach’(EG, n.28).

‘True faith in the incarnate Son of God is inseparable from self-giving, from membership in the community, from service, from reconciliation with others. The Son of God, by becoming flesh, summoned us to the revolution of tenderness’(EG, n. 88).

‘Today, our challenge is not so much atheism as the need to respond adequately to many people’s thirst for God, lest they try to satisfy it with alienating solutions or with a disembodied Jesus who demands nothing of us with regard to others. Unless these people find in the Church a spirituality which can offer healing and liberation, and fill them with life and peace, while at the same time summoning them to fraternal communion and missionary fruitfulness, they will end up by being taken in by solutions which neither make life truly human nor give glory to God’(EG, n. 89).

‘An authentic faith – which is never comfortable or completely personal – always involves a deep desire to change the world, to transmit values, to leave this earth somehow better than we found it. We love this magnificent planet on which God has put us, and we love the human family which dwells here, with all its tragedies and struggles, its hopes and aspirations, its strengths and weaknesses. The earth is our common home and all of us are brothers and sisters.

If indeed “the just ordering of society and of the state is a central responsibility of politics”, the Church “cannot and must not remain on the sidelines in the fight for justice.”

(Benedict XVI). (EG, n. 183).

Pope Francis insists on the primary focus on the poor

‘Today and always, “the poor are the privileged recipients of the Gospel” (Benedict XVI) (EG, n. 48).

‘God shows the poor his first mercy’ (EG, n. 198)

“The Church has made an option for the poor which is understood as a ‘special form of primacy in the exercise of Christian charity, to which the whole tradition of the Church bears witness ... This is why I want a Church which is poor and for the poor. They have much to teach us ... We need to let ourselves be evangelized by them.” (EG, n. 198)

Abbé Pierre

‘Let us never lose our living conviction that it is not necessary to wait until we are splendid people before we can do splendid things.
That would probably mean waiting a long time,
too long in fact!

We need only to understand one splendid thing and then try to base our whole life upon it:
and that thing is that the person we must help in all things is the person who is suffering the most.’

Albert Nolan OP

‘The option for the poor is an uncompromising and unequivocal taking of sides in a situation of structural conflict. It is not a matter of preaching to some people rather than to others, or a matter of being generous to the ‘under-privileged’, or a judgment about the personal guilt of the rich, or even, in the first instance, a matter of life-style. It is the assertion that Christian faith entails, for everyone and as part of its essence, the taking of sides in the structural conflict between the oppressor and the oppressed.’

Albert Nolan OP

‘A thoroughgoing option for the poor includes the willingness to question one’s assumptions and to learn from those who are oppressed. It is only after one has learned to have confidence in the ability of the oppressed to promote their own cause and to bring about their own liberation that one can begin to share that struggle with them and to make a contribution in real solidarity with all those who have taken an option against oppression.’

‘One of the characteristic themes and guidelines dealt with by the Magisterium in recent years is the option or love of preference for the poor. This is an option, or a special form of primacy in the exercise of Christian charity to which the whole tradition of the Church bears witness ... It cannot but embrace the immense multitudes of the hungry, the needy, the homeless, those without medical care, and, above all, those without hope of a better future. It is impossible not to take account of the existence of these realities. To ignore them would mean becoming like the rich man who pretended not to know the beggar Lazarus lying at his gate.’

(Luke 16:19-31)’(JP II Sollicitudo Rei Socialis 1987 n. 42).

‘The preferential option for the poor is not limited to material poverty, since it is well known that there are many other forms of poverty, especially in modern society – not only economic but cultural and spiritual poverty as well’(JP II Centesimus Annus 1991 n. 57).

Jean Vanier

‘Indeed, far from being desirable, success, power and wealth prevent us from being truly ourselves. It is only when we recognise our weakness, our poverty, when we seek help, that we become human. We are not called to be perfect; we are called to be humble. And this is the gift we receive when we live with and work beside people who are fragile ... The poorest lead us into another world ...

‘There are a lot of people clapping Francis. But are they doing what he suggests? Are they going to the peripheries and befriending the poorest, and receiving the wisdom that the poor can give? The church will not change because of Francis. It will change because of all of us. Because of me.’ (See The Tablet 26 April 2014, pp. 10-11)

‘I have come to cast fire upon the earth and how I wish it were blazing already’ (Luke 12:49)

Teilhard de Chardin 1934

‘Some day,
after harnessing space,
the winds,
the tides
and gravitation,

We shall harness for God
the energies of Love.

And then,
for the second time in the history of the world,
we shall have discovered fire.’

‘When properly understood, cultural diversity is not a threat to Church unity. The Holy Spirit, sent by the Father and the Son, transforms our hearts and enables us to enter into the perfect communion of the blessed Trinity, where all things find their unity. He builds up the communion and harmony of the people of God. The same Spirit is that harmony, just as he is the bond of love between the Father and the Son.<sup>93</sup> It is he who brings forth a rich variety of gifts, while at the same time creating a unity which is never uniformity but a multifaceted and inviting harmony. Evangelization joyfully acknowledges these varied treasures which the Holy Spirit pours out upon the Church. We would not do justice to the logic of the incarnation if we thought of Christianity as monocultural and monotonous’(EG, n. 117).

‘Popular piety enables us to see how the faith, once received, becomes embodied in a culture and is constantly passed on. Once looked down upon, popular piety came to be appreciated once more in the decades following the Council.

In the Exhortation Evangelii Nuntiandi, Pope Paul VI gave a decisive impulse in this area. There he stated that popular piety “manifests a thirst for God which only the poor and the simple can know”<sup>100</sup> and that “it makes people capable of generosity and sacrifice even to the point of heroism, when it is a question of bearing witness to belief”(EG, n. 123).

The Sacrament of Orders

Some members of the Body of Christ are chosen to receive the Sacrament of Orders. As baptized Christians they continue to share in the priestly-prophetic-kingly life and ministry of Jesus as outlined in the previous meditation.

The sacrament of marriage bestows on certain baptized men and women a special grace related to their state in life.

The sacrament of orders bestows on certain baptized members of the church a special grace and a special 'character' that make them instruments of Christ as head of his Body, the Church.

Governing the Church: the Sacrament of Holy Orders

Organisational leadership – leadership in the ‘ordering’ of the community. Of course, with this ministry as with all the other ministries, the one entrusted with it carries it out best when he does so in love.

The ordained minister is to carry out his ministry of leadership of the community with the mind and heart of Jesus, as a service to Christ’s Body the Church.

‘The Lord’s slave must not be quarrelsome but kindly to everyone, able to teach, forbearing, correcting with gentleness those who oppose the truth. God may perhaps grant that they will repent and come to know the truth’(2Timothy 2:24-26).

‘Never be a dictator over any group that is put in your charge, but be an example that the whole flock will follow’(1Peter 5:3).

‘The holders of office ... are dedicated to promoting the interest of their brothers and sisters, so that all who belong to the people of God may, through their free and well-ordered efforts towards a common goal, attain to salvation’(LG, n. 18).

‘While testing the spirits if they be of God, they must discover with faith, recognise with joy, and foster with diligence, the many and varied charismatic gifts of the laity ... bringing about agreement among divergent outlooks in such a way that nobody may feel a stranger in the Christian community ... (They are to be) defenders of the common good’(PO, n.9).

John Thornhill SM

‘Our ministry will be fruitful, if we sincerely offer the service of which we are capable.

Those pastors who effectively foster the faith, hope and love which constitutes the essential covenant-relationship between God and the church, and who help their people find God in the reality of their lives, are accepted by their people as effective spiritual leaders, whatever limitations they may have in their own talents.’

Pope John-Paul II speaks of the 'spiritual life that grows through the exercise of the ministry'(PDV n.25), just as a car battery charges itself up when the car is running.

Our ministry is about communion. We come to others from our communion with God and Jesus draws them into deeper communion through our ministry.

Holiness through belonging

‘The spiritual life of the priest should be profoundly marked by a missionary zeal and dynamism. In the exercise of their ministry and the witness of their lives, priests have the duty to form the community entrusted to them as a truly missionary community’(J-P II, I will give you shepherds, n.32)

The ordained minister is to help make the faithful aware of their role, as baptized Christians, to be sacraments of Christ the King, allowing the Spirit of the risen Christ to inspire them to contribute to bringing about the reign of God in the world.

Make me a channel of your peace
where there is hatred, let me bring your love

Where there is injury, your pardon, Lord and where there's doubt true faith in You.

Make me a channel of your peace

Where there's despair in life let me bring hope

Where there is darkness, only light and where there's sadness ever joy

Oh Master grant that I may never seek
so much to be consoled as to console

To be understood as to understand
to be loved as to love with all my soul.

Make me a channel of your peace
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned

In giving of ourselves that we receive
and in dying that we're born to eternal life.

Oh Master grant that I may never seek
so much to be consoled as to console

To be understood as to understand
to be loved as to love with all my soul.

Make me a channel of your peace
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned

In giving of ourselves that we receive

and in dying that we're born to eternal life.
